TUC-OF-WAR SUCCESTION.

So many people have suggested a change in the tug-of-war rules, that the Bulleris is bound to give space to their view. It is that the unlimited time for each match is too much for human endurance in the case of cept in giving inferentially the well-matched teams, and that at the end of an hour the team having the most rope should be accorded the victory. So far as heard from the leaders are strongly opposed to such a change. The only suggestion the BULLETIN would make is that when individual men in the desperate pulls feel that they are "gone," no false pride should permit them, for the sake of their team's triumph, to incur bodily injury that may remain with them for life and perhaps shorten their days. In the same connection, while the excitement is rife, all ambitious athletes should be warned that any man having any physical weakness, especially in the vital organe, however strong in muscular development, has no business to enter a tug-of war team.

FIRST SUGAR FROM EWA.

Mr. J. N. S. Williams, manager of the Union Iron Works, has favored the Bulleyis with a sample of sugar from the Ewa mill. To-day the contractors for the plant complete the practical test of the mill. It has been a successful one and the Union the plant, which is for the diffusion process, was constructed at the foundry named in Honolulu, giving a large amount of work to mechanics. The sugar seems to be first-class, having a good grain and a sparkle that rejoices the eye. Where the vast plantation now exhibits itself in hundreds of acres of juicy cane, surrounding one of the largest and most emplete sugar milts in the world, as only two years ago an arid desrt. Enterprise has tilled the land, rought water through a dozen open-

This was all egun and in part carried out in the ace of threatened unfavorable changs, which have since come to pass, in lawaii's situation in the greatestay only-market for her chief prouct and that of this enterpriseagar. ## LETTER FRUM CAPT. EADIE.

I have no desire to be a "kicker," r to sneer at our late opponents in ne pull on Saturday evening, but I nink that, in justice to the Scottish cam, I ought to make a few remarks in reply to Mr. Ziegler's statement in this morning's Advertiser.

The facts of the incident on Saturday evening, so far as I am aware, are these: Mr. McCarthy called both Mr. Ziegler and myself aside and said to us, "Look here, you fellows have been pulling for nearly two and three quarter hours; do you want to make it a draw?" Mr. Ziegler asked, "Who proposed this draw?" Mr. McCarthy replied, "I did." Mr. Ziegler then said, "I will see my men," and I said, without consulting my team, "I consent to a draw. We both left Mr. McC. and went to our teams. I told my leading man what was proposed, Mr. Ziegler on his part speaking separately to each of his men. I asked my leader if it was worth pulling any longer. He replied, "No, it is not." I then said to him, "Well, stop pulling," and immediately on his ceasing to put his full weight on the rope the Germans pulled the Scottish over the mark. I wish to point out that when Mr. McCarthy called the two captains aside, the rope was almost 2 that when I returned and spoke to my feet 3 inches in favor of the Scotch, leading men, the Germans had gained about 6 inches or so, still leaving over a foot in favor of the Scottish team; or, in other words, until I told my leader to cease pulling, the Scottish were still 1 foot or more ahead. The whole affair, from the time Mr. McCarthy first spoke until the finale was reached, did not occupy over two minutes at the most and not 15 minutes as Mr. Ziegler states. At the moment when I told my leader to stop, I considered that sufficient evidence had been given by both sides of their pulling qualities and endurance, and that to prolong the contest was to make the trial of strength degenerate into a brutal affair. As regards the "tired feeling" spoken of in the Advertiser, I am willing to acknowledge that, after and I have no doubt that our sturdy opponents were equally so. Thank-

A DENIAL.

Mr. C. W. Ziegler wishes to enter a strong denial to the statement made by friends of the Scotch team through this paper, to the effect that the men of that team let go under the impression that a draw was ordered.

The Advertiser carelessly attributes the statement in question to the BULLETIN, although it was clearly given as coming from persons who have nothing to do with this paper's views. The Bulletin's report of the pull contained no comments on the cause of the Scotch defeat, exreason that the team was outmatched.

Since Mr. Ziegler has asked to record his emphatic denial of the statement referred to, a letter has been received, which is printed, from the captain of the Scottish team repeating the statement. Between

A FATAL FIGHT.

Beary Williams Comes to His Death from a Street Sculle.

Henry Williams, a balf-white driver in the employ of Sanders' Express, came to an untimely death last night. At 5 o'clock he was quarreling on Queen street with another driver named Ferreira, brother Iron Works are to be congratulated of Frank "the runaway catcher," on the great achievement. Most of and words led to blows. Williams struck at Ferreira and challenged him to fight, when Ferreira hit him first under the chin and then on the breast. The second blow knocked Williams violently to the earth, his head striking a stone. The fallen man lay motionless and turned up his eyes.

"You have killed that man," said Mr. Kennedy of the Honolulu Iron Works office, who was passing on his

The striker and some comrades became alarmed and picking up the unconscious man carried him into Mr. Morgan's auction room. Dr. McKibbin was sent for, and after restorative treatment Williams, who had recovered consciousness, was sent to his home on Kinau street. On reaching the house he was helped, walking with a stagger, inside. He said to his wife: "Aloha oe; e make ana wau'

(Love to you; I am going to die). Mrs. Chapman and Mrs. R. N. Boyd, his sisters, were sent for. Dr. Henri McGrew was also summoned and found Williams conscious and able to talk. After some attention to the patient the doctor left, saying he would be all right in the morning. The sisters went home but when they returned later their brother was dead, he having died between 7:30 ard in spite of every gloomy vaticiand 7:45 o'elock.

Before Williams died he told the story of his fatal quarrel, candidly admitting his own part in promoting it. Ferreira called to see him and he said, "That's the man I had a fight with," adding that he drove express No. 39 and was a brother of Frank Ferreira. The dead man leaves a widow and six young children. His age was 31 years.

Deputy Marshal Mehrten and Capt. Nahoolewa, after visiting the house of mourning, proceeded to the house of Mr. Ferreira and, at midnight, arrested his son Joe, who had the fight with Williams. This morning the Deputy Marshal empaneled a jury and began an inquest on the dead man, which was adjourned to await the report of a post mortem examination.

ASSAULT ON A REPORTER.

Mr. Whaley, late owner of the yacht Haleyon, assaulted Mr. Frank Hoogs, reporter of the Advertiser, on Fort street this forenoon. Hoogs was standing in front of the Wigwam billiard hall when Whaley came up and with a salutation of abusive language struck him on the shoulder. The reporter in trying to ward off the blow received a cut on his fourth finger from Whaley's ring. Hoogs retreated across the street and through Mr. Sachs' store, getting to the Advertiser office by way of Hotel and Alakea streets. It had been common talk for a day or two that Whaley was in pursuit of the Advertiser reporter, on account of items in that paper reflecting on the pursuer. Whaley is one of the most powerful men in the city, as muscular strength goes, and Hoogs though of average build and prowess is hardly a match for him physically. The pursued reporter has therefore only the laws of the land left to him for legitimate

CERTIFICATE TRANSLATION.

I herewith appoint Mr. M. GOLD-BERG, Agent for the sale of my Genuine Sanitary Underclothing in the Hawaiian Islands. Beware of on. [Signed,] PROF. DR. G. JAEGER.

Stuttgart, the 19th of September, '90.

A FULL ASSORTMENT JUST ARRIVED.

Fort Street.

At this season of the year the question naturally arises in one's mind-What shall I give father and mother, sister and brother; and oh, yes, I must give so and so a present, and I almost forgot so and so who has been so kind to me during the past year; and then I must send away something to my friends in my old home. Dear me-What shall it be? Wont some one help me out of my dilemma? Why, of course we will. If you will only take the trouble to step inside, we'll show you so many new and useful articles, that you will wonder you ever were perplexed about it. I adhere closely to goods that are in my line of trade, but as you well know there are thousands upon thousands of 113-115 Fort Street, articles in that line.

I have ready for this season little POCKET LOCKETS made of a Hawaiian dollar. To all appearances it is a dollar intact; but by pressing with your thumbnail in a certain spot, up flies the cover and there before you is-well, whatever you see fit to put there. They are splendid to send away with your photoinside, and then they are Hawaiian too, and you are always looking for something particularly Hawaiian. In all other goods I am showing a very complete line; particularly so of fine Diamond Jewelry, and Solid Gold Watches.

that a Picture is among the very best and that the place to get such things is at King Bros., Hotel Street.

Has it ever occurred to you what a desirable and acceptable present a picture makes? If not lend . us your ear for a moment until we explain. In the first place everyone enjoys looking at a pretty picture; it not only serves to beautify the home, but appeals to one's better feelings and forms excellent food for thought, which nothing else can give, and if the subject be well chosen, serves as a silent lecturer for good. One need not confine himself to any particular style as the assortment of both styles and subjects is unlimited and almost any fancy can be grati-
